

Inframe!

Francis Walsh's Infra Language bingo game sharpens your skills and helps you to read people rapidly.

The Meetings Game that Beats the Boredom

Inframe!

Pick people's mode and beat meetings boredom.

Infra Language Bingo

Players must identify themselves to each other. Each player must have a copy of the Inframe! checklist in front of them during a meeting. It's on the next page.

Step 1

As the meeting progresses, a player must watch and listen to non-playing, meeting participants.

Step 2

When a mode is clearly used by a meeting participant, a player should write the participant's name next to the mode they have used.

Step 3

When a player has recorded five participants, each using a different mode, the player must call out 'Inframe!'

The first player to call out 'Inframe!' wins the game.

Rules

Players' own Infra Language modes must not be recorded.
Players may induce participants to use a mode
but only without the meeting participant's knowledge.
Players must behave ethically.
